

MARIT KALISVAART

Marit Kalisvaart is from the Netherlands and obtained her medical degree in 2015 at the Erasmus University Medical Center in Rotterdam. Marit then combined a senior house office job in General Surgery with a PhD Project in Liver Transplantation in Rotterdam (supervision Dr J de Jonge / Prof J IJzermans). In September 2016 she moved to Birmingham, UK to expand her PhD research under the supervision of Prof P Muiesan at the Liver Unit of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital and gain clinical experience in HPB Surgery & Liver Transplantation. She will defend her PhD thesis 'Graft quality and postoperative complications after liver transplantation' in November 2018, before she will proceed with her surgical training. She has presented several parts of her PhD research at the annual congress of the ILTS and won both a Rising Star Award (2016) and Young Investigator Award (2018). She became a trainee member of the ILTS Vanguard committee in May 2018.