

SPECIAL INTEREST GROUP (SIG) EXPERT PANEL STATEMENTS: ILTS DISCLAIMER

This version: 15 January 2021

1. SIG Statements posted on this website are rapid ad hoc communications prepared by a panel of experts appointed by ILTS (the SIG Steering Committee). They reflect the consensus views of recognized authorities at the date of posting.
2. They are presented in good faith as guidance for liver transplant professionals for the ultimate benefit of patients.
3. However, they are not practice guidelines and have not been subject to the quality assurance procedures normally applied to comprehensive guideline documents, as follows:
 - a. Evidence review may not have been pursued as specified by the Health and Medicine Division of NASEM
 - b. The Grading of Recommendations, Assessment and Evaluation (GRADE) approach may not have been used
 - c. References may not be included
 - d. Conflict of interest disclosures may not have been required
 - e. Timely updates may not be provided
4. Therefore, the opinions and recommendations provided in these statements are those of the expert authors and do not necessarily indicate a standard of care, nor can they replace local specialist consultation.
5. ILTS cannot accept liability for any decisions or actions based on the posted content.
